

Business & Organisations

As organisations we are increasingly aware and concerned about the difficult challenges humanity faces on earth, yet we struggle to adapt meaningfully and decisively. Active Earth helps organisations to respond. We design and facilitate experiences that lead to different levels of understanding, awareness and insight. From here we help to find new perspectives and actions towards important changes in the world.

Our services include tailored programmes, gatherings and retreats – and through these we combine rich content, powerful processes, important mind and body practices and deep experiences in a beautiful natural environment. As a team we bring many years experience to support what we do - both inside organisations and outside as consultants, facilitators and guides.

Learn more about our approach section of the site.

